Here are the recommendations that came out of the Student Success Summit:

The main item that surfaced –

Need for an effective professional development infrastructure for faculty (full- and part-time) and staff. Such an infrastructure should address the following:
- How can we better get people together for professional development activities and to communicate? Is a college hour necessary to do this?
- Who would prioritize/facilitate activities? What administrative and AOA support is needed to do so?
- Is a physical place on campus necessary for trainings, dialogue sessions, community building to be effective? What would that look like?
- How do we bring faculty together with staff to improve institutional culture?
- Could this infrastructure enhance the sharing of information to help support students (e.g., priority reg info, tutoring info, counseling info)?
- Could this be funded at least in part with SSSP or Student Equity funds?

Additional item –

We should hold a M/W and T/TH day for students to explore majors (at the 8th week of instruction). ADT tables would be in the quad, and there would be help for students with their SEPs for priority registration.
